Impromptu Debate With Medics Brings Social Medicine Topic to Campus

BY CARROLL O'CONNOR

Several local physicians agreed Monday night to an open discussion of socialized medicine to be held on the campus at some time in the near future. The decision resulted from a proposal by this reporter and another university student, Arthur Stone, following a round table discussion in the auditorium of the nurses home of St. Patrick's hospital.

The discussion was conducted by Dr. Harold Tascher of the university's sociology department, and the subject was "Community Relations of Private Interest Groups." Dr. Tascher appeared at the invitation of a local nurses organization. He spoke for twenty-five minutes to an audience of about one hundred persons including doctors, nurses and other members of the staff of St. Patrick's hospital, and interested outsiders. He stressed the growing need for social services on the community level to keep pace with rapid technological advancement.

Government Program

Immediately afterward, Dr. Tascher was asked by members of the audience if social services included a compulsory government health program. He replied that he did not favor compulsion but that the need for wider government interest in the nation's health was apparent. He cited the Ewing report to Congress as evidence that many people cannot afford adequate medical attention.

Doctors Stephen N. Preston, Arthur R. Kintner, and J. E. Kress, denied the validity of the Ewing report. Dr. Preston described it as the biased efforts of a group whose aim was to achieve political power. In rebuttal, he presented the report of the Brookings Institute, which seeks to show that enough Americans can afford to pay for medical services so that government entrance into the field of medicine is unnecessary.

Socialized Medicine

A lively discussion on the pros and cons of socialized medicine followed among members of the audience and the physicians, one of whom suggested adjourning the discussion until a later time when undisputed facts and figures might be introduced.

At this point, the writer proposed that the future panel be held at the University. Dr. Tascher said this was agreeable to him, as did several of the physicians. Presumably, any new discussion would include additional members of the university faculty and possibly students, although no mention of persons who might take part was made.

Dr. Tascher concluded his personal remarks by saying that only through application of our democratic ideas to whatever serious needs affect our people, can we hope to stave off communism or any other kind of totalitarianism. He said that fear brought about by social want was an opening for dictators to seize control and direct the fortunes of nations.

PLC Choir to Sing At Union Sunday

The "Choir of the West" from Pacific Lutheran college, Parkland, Wash., will present a program of sacred choral music at 8:15 Sunday night in the Student Union theater. The 58-voice cappella choir is sponsored by the St. Paul's Lutheran church.

The choir's appearance is one of 20 on the group's annual tour of the nation. Julian Read, president of the local Lutheran church choir, called the Pacific Lutheran choir "one of the foremost singing organizations in the Northwest."

First Bus Ad Paper Edited At Montana

The first issue of "Montana Business," a monthly bulletin published by the university's Bureau of Business and Economic Research, has been mailed to banks, businessmen, and chambers of commerce throughout the state.

The publication is designed to keep Montana businessmen informed of the state's economic health. It will contain regular reviews of current business conditions and economic developments. Each issue will carry statistics showing activity in the key props of the state's economic structure.

The March issue reveals that 1948 was an even more prosperous year for the state than 1947. Last year's employment, electric power consumption, department store sales, bank debit, and building permit figures all topped their 1947 marks. Only carloadings showed a slight decline.

"Montana Business" is directed by Dr. Harold Hoflich. Dr. A. Peter Ruderson is economic analyst. Other staff members are William V. George, Mrs. Jean R. Davies, and Prof. Robert C. Line.

Students Direct Saturday School

The campus unit of the Red Cross is sponsoring a Saturday afternoon playschool at the nursery for handicapped children under the chairmanship of Doris Carlson, Choteau.

The purpose of the playschool is to provide an opportunity for children handicapped either physically or mentally, to have social contacts with children in their own age group.

The games and exercises that the group offers for the children is hampered because of the lack of trained personnel. However, the unit reports that marked improvement has been made in at least two cases. Partial recovery has been made in the fields of speech and muscle coordination.

The children's mothers have said the children show distinct enjoyment from the planned play and look forward to the Saturday classes.

Fourteen girls have volunteered to assist with the playschool and have said they have enjoyed their work.

Sentinel Staff Gets Pay Raise; Kaimin Salaries Remain Same

Central board voted at a meeting yesterday to increase the salaries of the Sentinel staff for next year and to maintain the Kaimin salaries at their present level.

Publications board recommended to the board that the salaries for the Sentinel editor, business manager, photographer, and associate editors be raised next year and that present Kaimin salaries be maintained for another year.

The editor of the 1950 Sentinel will receive $70 per month; the business manager, $40; the photographer, $35; and the associate editors, $10. At present the editor's salary is $35; the business manager's, $20; the photographer's, $15; and the associate editor's, $5.

The editor of the Kaimin next year will again receive $70 per month; the business manager, $50; and the associate editors, $10.

Bo Brown, St. Ignace, present Kaimin business manager, told the board yesterday that the fall quarter financial statistics of the Kaimin show that the paper is capable of maintaining the present salaries and of making a profit, too.

The board members discussed the possibility that these campus offices might become too "commercialized" if the salaries of the Kaimin and Sentinel staffs were maintained and raised. After a heated debate, however, they agreed that, since these offices require so much time and work, salary increases are deserved. The salaries will be subject to revision each year as determined by current economic trends.

The board also voted to sponsor a program by the Gonzaga Glee club. The club is planning to tour Montana during April and will appear here April 19.

Members of Central board voted to raise the fee paid for Sentinels by ex-students not in school at present from $1 to $2.

Rudolf Firkusny, internationally famous pianist, will give a concert in the Student Union auditorium next Wednesday and Thursday, Forest Paulson, chairman of the outside entertainment committee, said yesterday. The recital is another feature of the Community Concert series.

'M' CLUB MEN TO HELP ERECT RING FOR TOURNEY

"M" club members are urged to be at the gymnasium this afternoon to bring up the ring for the annual "M" club tournament.

John Holding, "M" club president, announced that the completion of setting up the ring and the seating arrangements will take place on Thursday.

All members who do not participate in setting up the ring will have to pay the regular admission price.

Masquers To Give Points Tonight

Masquer points will be awarded Wednesday night at the Masquer's meeting at 7 o'clock in Simpkins hall.

Sentinel pictures will be taken at the meeting and nominations for the coming election of officers will be accepted.

Anyone who worked in Winter-set can claim their points by submitting his claim to the Masquer office before the meeting, Tom Roberts, Missoula, Masquer vice president said.

NEA Invites Ford to National Conference

James L. C. Ford, dean of the journalism school, has been invited by the National Education association to act as a professional education consultant at the national conference in Chicago April 4 to 7.

The largest and most representative group of college and university leaders assemble each year at this annual conference. NEA's department of higher education sponsors the meeting.

EDUCATION MAGAZINE CARRIES CLARK'S ARTICLES

Dr. W. P. Clark, chairman of the department of classical languages, has been writing a series of articles for Montana Education on the "Learning and Teaching of Foreign Languages."

His first article appeared in the November issue, and they are still running to date.

Firkusny has been soloist with all the leading symphony orchestras and most recently was chosen by Serge Koussevitzky and Leopold Stokowski for first performances of new works by two important contemporary composers, Howard Hanson and Gian-Carlo Menotti. He played the world premiere of Hanson's works with the Boston Symphony orchestra last December and the first performance of Menotti's concerto with the New York Philharmonic orchestra in January.

At the present time Firkusny is on a concert tour of more than 50 cities. Following a recital in Carnegie hall in mid-April, he will leave on a tour of South America.

The celebrated pianist, born in Bohemia, made his debut at the age of 10 with the Philharmonic orchestra in Prague. He later went to Paris under the direction of Albert Cortot, who was so thrilled with the young prodigy after his first performance, he shouted: "You no longer need a teacher, only the public."

Firkusny visited the United States for the first time in 1938, making a short introductory concert tour and returned to Europe with the expectation of revisiting his country the following season. The war intervened and he left Czechoslovakia on the eve of its occupation. After a short stay in France and England he secured passage to the States and remained here throughout the war with the exception of two summer tours in Central and South America.

A Cappella to Sing 'Messiah' Sunday Night

The Montana State University a cappella choir, directed by George Perkins, will give a performance of the latter portions of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, March 13, at 8:15 p.m. in the Student Union auditorium.

Such favorites as the soprano airs, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" and "How Beautiful are the Feet of Them" and the choruses "Behold the Lamb of God," "Worthy Is the Lamb that Was Slain," and the "Hallelujah" will be heard.

The first part of the "Messiah," containing music appropriate to the Christmas season, was presented by the choir on its Christmas concert last December. The two remaining parts of the "Messiah" will be heard on next Sunday's concert.

This latter portion of the oratorio is less frequently performed, yet contains some solos and choruses which are even more beautiful and inspiring than those in the more familiar Christmas section.

Soloists for the performance will include Donna Buls, Alice Byers, and Colleen Haag, sopranos; George Lewis and Edwin Overby, tenors; William Mrandt and Neil Dahlstrom, baritones.

There is no admission charge for the concert.

Pony Boy, or How to Improve Your Cheating Techniques

In these days of mass education, erratic profs, and lazy students, many shortcuts in the scholastic field have developed. The pony or crib, an old institution in itself, has come into popular use within the past several years because it is a useful device in classes of large attendance.

Since finals will be forced upon many of you within the next week, the Kaimin feels it has a responsibility of acquainting some of the students with the more proper techniques in pony or crib craft. Competition is keen for the most honest students, therefore, the following devious techniques, if absorbed and practiced carefully, will equip any intelligent person with adequate means to combat any of the professional parasites.

1. Cuff Method: Student scribbles important dates and code words on cuffs. When space runs out on outer cuffs turn up and write on inside. Not conspicuous to profs because it can be used as pretext for warm room or just wanting to pitch-in and do a good job. Starched cuffs more conducive to clear pencil marks.

2. Pants-Shoe Method: Write choice items on knee region of pants or use side of saddle shoes. Better for girls with long skirts to write on legs in region of knee, but dangerous attention impeller to profs and honest neighbors. Not safe to use ink on leg in warm weather—rubs off easily.

3. Neighbor Check Method: Good for tests in rooms where all available seats are taken. Sly glances at neighbor's paper on either side can be used but never get obnoxious. If neighbor frowns upon method best retort is "just seeing how we compare, old pal." Say with smile.

4. Handy-Pack Method: Small pieces of cardboard with needed data and formulæ that can be palmed are best. Can be hidden in large upturned sweaters. User must be careful. Dropping the cards on floor bouses up the act.

5. Bald-Headed Friend Method: Only can be used when you have very good friend in class who is bald. Put notes on bald part of cranium. Very rare method.

6. Trick Watch Method: Used mostly by professionals. Small wristwatch required. Take out works and insert spindle. Turn winder with paper of crib notes around it to needed info.

There are dozens of little tricks that could be added to the list, however, the student who masters the above methods should cope with the best of the sharpies.

Editor's note: Caution! Don't get your fool self caught!

CAMPUS BRIEFS

Arrangements for setting up the ring for the annual M club club blotter will be discussed at M club meeting tonight.

The stamp collector's club of MSU will meet tonight at 7:30 in Room 103 of the library.

Representatives of campus activity groups and living groups will meet this afternoon at 4 in the Copper room of the Student Union instead of tomorrow. The meeting will iron out conflicts among the groups concerning their spring quarter functions.

All "M" club members are reminded to report to the training room of the men's gymnasium at 2 p.m. today to assist in getting boxers ready for the coming tournament, according to Bob Anderson, "M" club student boxing manager.

The Home Ec club will have its picture taken tonight at the Home Living center. There will also be a short, important meeting, Bernice Wiley, publicity chairman, announced.

The Kaimin staff will have its grand finale Friday night at the Park. Dinner will be served and toasts will be given to the incoming Kaimin victims. Paul "Hic" Hawkins and Bo "Burp" Brown will preside.

POTENTIAL GOLFERS ASKED TO ATTEND MEETING

All men interested in trying out for the university golf team, including freshmen, are requested to attend a meeting Friday at 4 p.m. in the Bitterroot room of the Student Union.

Coach George Sarsfield wants members of last year's team to be present.

Strip Divots

By BOB FADER

By controlling expenditures, the housing office is able to assume all thawing costs. Those having paid such costs will be credited on their rent.

As soon as nature completes her ground thaw, the powers-to-be will surface the wagon trails. According to Bob Breen, two problems confront the resurfacing job.

First: To prevent the houses on Carbon and Dawson streets from winding up in Portland, Ore., a good natural drainage is to be provided. All the water from University avenue moves south plus the westward drainage off Sentinel and Stone mountains. The natural drainage for this area is Pattee creek. A drainage ditch will be dug in an east and west direction immediately behind the south houses on Dawson street and drain into the area behind the ball park. A similar ditch may be dug south of Carbon street. After this is completed, all the streets in the upper area will be resurfaced in gravel. For obvious reasons they will not be black topped or paved. To date, no definite plans have been made for the streets in the lower section.

Speed Checks

Second: To prevent disaster caused by speeding on smooth roads, no bridge will be laid over the drainage ditch as it crosses Lake, Custer, and Ravalli streets. Breen wants to keep the speed limit within the area at 10 miles per hour. Anyone keeping within this limit will not break any car springs. To further curb excessive speeds, Breen called all persons sending commercial vehicles out here, and with the exception of one person, received the best of cooperation. He requests anyone seeing a commercial truck or one of our own members traveling too fast to report it to the housing office so that proper action may be taken.

This year we are confronted with a somewhat new problem. For the last few years the children have been too young to really get out and run the streets. They are a year older now and at that vitality age. Because of the confined space, busy mothers, and excessive traffic, especially at certain hours, it is almost an impossibility to keep the children in the yard. So, for the children's sake, keep it slow and use the brake. Probably wouldn't be a bad idea to keep the kids in during the noon-time rush.

After spending a few minutes down at the vet's nursery, here is one vote for the most under-paid and over-worked staff members, Jean Walbridge and Margaret Arnold. There are two people blessed with patience and understanding. They do not have one minute of honest relaxation caring for the nursery school. Margaret says the only difference between their school and the one at the University is the latter is civilized.

Sounds Like Godfrey

Here's an idea of what goes on there. One thumb-in-mouth child during his rest period kept singing, "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth," but filled in unknown phrases with, "My gawd, happy new year!"

In the future, this column would appreciate birth announcements, coming events, or what-have-you. Please leave them at the housing office before 10 a.m. Thursday for Friday's publication.

Martha Parish, 11 Beaverhead, wants to know why the brood will miss the small puddles and land neck deep in the Splinterville lakes.

To brighten and spice up those starchy dishes during Lent, add a goodly share of chopped stuffed olives.

Meatballs Still Cheap

Anytime a resourceful vet's wife (God bless her) can't squeeze Swedish meatballs from a two-bit piece, something's wrong. Eggs are 55 cents a dozen. The cost of elk-berger is nil. Why waste three onions when two will do the job? Fat drippings will work as well as lard or Wesson oil. Bread heels, usually discarded, act as slices, and day-old bread may be bought at less than 15 cents a loaf.

Maybe A. Peter Ruderman had better reserve those economic theories for the classroom and let the practical housewife do it right. By the way, who is Uncle Paul?

Annual 'M' Club Boxing Show Is Tomorrow Night With 10 Bouts In Five Weight Classes

BY JOE STELL

The cauliflower set will display its talent at the annual "M" club boxing tournament tomorrow night at 7:30 in the university gym. The heightened fight card will offer 10 bouts, ranging from lightweight to heavyweight, according to Bob Anderson, "M" club student boxing manager.

Each bout will be a three-rounder with one-minute intermissions, and the frays will be run off in quick succession.

The fight card will proceed as follows:

Lightweight—Marvin McArthur, Butte, PDT, vs. Don Reynolds, Ft. Benton, Lambda Chi.

Welterweight—Bill May, Missoula, PSK, vs. Don Morgan, Missoula, Independent; John Marleau, Big Moose, N. Y., South hall, vs. Eli Asid, Butte, SAE; Bob Fraser, Billings, SX, vs. Earl Cook, Helena, SX.

Middleweight — Bill Ingham, Billings, Corbin hall, vs. George

Shepard, Missoula, SX; Abe O'Hern, Butte, SAE, vs. Ken Saylor, Great Falls, SX.

Light heavyweight—Lyle Grenager, Missoula, Independent, vs. Ed Shelton, Butte, SAE; Don Payton, Eureka, TX, vs. Larry Ryan, Missoula, Independent; Al "Whitey" Rosman, Windham, Independent, vs. "Lefty" Cerino, Anaconda, SAE.

Heavyweight—Lee Cork, Missoula, SAE, vs. Dick Reed, Miles City, Corbin hall.

There will be no wrestling events this year because of the lengthy fight card.

Oldtimers Back

Cork and Ryan are oldtimers in the fight game, each having fought two years ago. Rosman, O'Hern and Shelton are back from last year, as is lightweight McArthur.

Rosman was awarded the trophy for the evening's outstanding performance at last year's tournament, for his heavyweight decision over Dick Doyle, Missoula. Shelton beat Dick Salveson, Casper, Wyo., in an exhibition bout in the same tournament, and O'Hern gave up a decision to Keith Vick.

McArthur Won

Though O'Hern had outpointed his adversary up to the third round, he loosed a haymaker which not only missed his target but dislocated his shoulder. McArthur last year took a decision over Vince Glenn, Harlowton, for the lightweight event. McArthur boxed for three years on the Butte Public high squad, holding down that school's featherweight championship.

Proceeds of the tournament will be used for furthering the boxing theme as a varsity sport at the University. Badly needed boxing equipment will be purchased for the use of those who will want to take part in the sport in the future, Anderson said.

Winners of the events will get their choice of cup trophies or sweaters with chenille insignia. The outstanding performer of the evening will be awarded a gold, column-type trophy, with a boxer figurine. Losers will be presented with gold boxing glove charms as consolation prizes. Pres. James A. McCain, an ardent boxing fan himself, will present the awards, as at previous "M" club tournaments.

Admission 80 Cents

Admission is $1.20 for ringside seats, and 80 cents for general admission. Tickets for the event are on sale at the Student Union, but are also available at downtown stores promoting sports activities.

Officials for the tournament are Billy Dugal McFarland, referee; Deane Jones and C. R. Dragstedt, judges, and Johnny Campbell, timekeeper. The 20 boxers will weigh in at 3 p.m. today in the training room of the men's gymnasium.

Interscholastic Programs Sent To High Schools

Programs for the 43rd Montana Interscholastic meet, May 12-14, have been distributed to high schools throughout the state by Dr. J. W. Howard, general chairman of the Interscholastic committee.

The program for this year's meet contains information concerning entry blanks, expenses, housing, rules, and schedules for the various contests in track, golf, tennis, speech, theater, and high school newspapers. Winners of last year's events are listed.

Intramural Cage Title Game Tonight; SN Takes Third

The unbeaten Phi Delt place their perfect record on the line tonight at 8 against the once-beaten Ski club in the intramural basketball championship. Clyde (Cac) Hubbard, director of athletics, will present the champs with the intramural basketball trophy immediately after the game.

A tilt at 7 between the Wesley foundation and Kappa Psi will decide the 17th and 18th positions.

Sigma Nu edged South hall last night, 53 to 49, to win third place and the right to meet the loser of the championship game for second Friday night. South hall automatically took fourth. Baskets by Sigma Nu's Bill Walterskirchen and Vernon Ott during a deep freeze in the last minute won the game.

The Phi Delt's handed the Ski club its only loss in league play in a thrilling overtime, 46-44. The winners trailed the Ski club until the final seconds of the game when Alkire, Phi Delt center, scored three points to tie the score at 40. The Phi Delt's stalled a two point lead in the overtime to win the game.

The Phi Delt's, led by Lefty Byrne, holder of the individual game scoring record of 34 points and runnerup in total points, use a fast break offense. In the forward wall with Byrne is Jim Corning, speedy forward, and Hagenston, one of the best centers in either league.

The Ski club, led by Marinovich, holder of the total scoring record of 108 points, utilizes a deliberate offensive-defensive game with the emphasis on defense. Doran, Ski club forward, is a consistent point-maker and Holland acts as floor leader and tactician.

Dave Cole, intramural sports director, said the electric clock would be used.
